

Fishing for Health: What Fish Can I Eat from Columbia County Waters?

Join us in a discussion about fishing in Columbia County to learn where the publicly accessible bodies of water are located and what fish are safe to eat from them. Rebecca Polmateer, coordinator of Special Programs of Cornell Cooperative Extension of Columbia and Greene Counties will explain the reasons for the fish advisories from the New York Departments of Health and Environmental Conservation. Rebecca will also discuss the preparation of the fish to reduce exposure to harmful contaminants.

All participants will receive tackle box guides as well as maps of the publicly accessible bodies of water in Columbia County.
